Exhaustive Prior Art Search

While we begin our efforts with an exhaustive prior art search, we don't stop with simply creating a laundry list of patents and technical articles.

Exhaustive Prior Art Search

While we begin our efforts with an exhaustive prior art search, we don't stop with simply creating a laundry list of patents and technical articles.

Simply stated, clients engage Red Chalk Group because of our track record in successfully challenging patent validity. Having recently been engaged on several high profile cases, Red Chalk Group's patent invalidity services are unlike other those of typical patent search companies and patent search firms. While we begin our efforts with an exhaustive prior art search, we don't stop with simply creating a laundry list of patents and technical articles.

Red Chalk Group engages highly experienced technical and industry experts to assess and rank the identified prior art for relevance and merit. As a result, we are able to build comprehensive invalidity strategies, discussing our findings and solutions with counsel as appropriate. All findings are placed in a secure data room for your access at any point in time during your case. Equally important, to help you manage costs, our patent search services are billed on a fixed fee bases – in other words, we continue working your problem until we find a solution.
